Working Progress

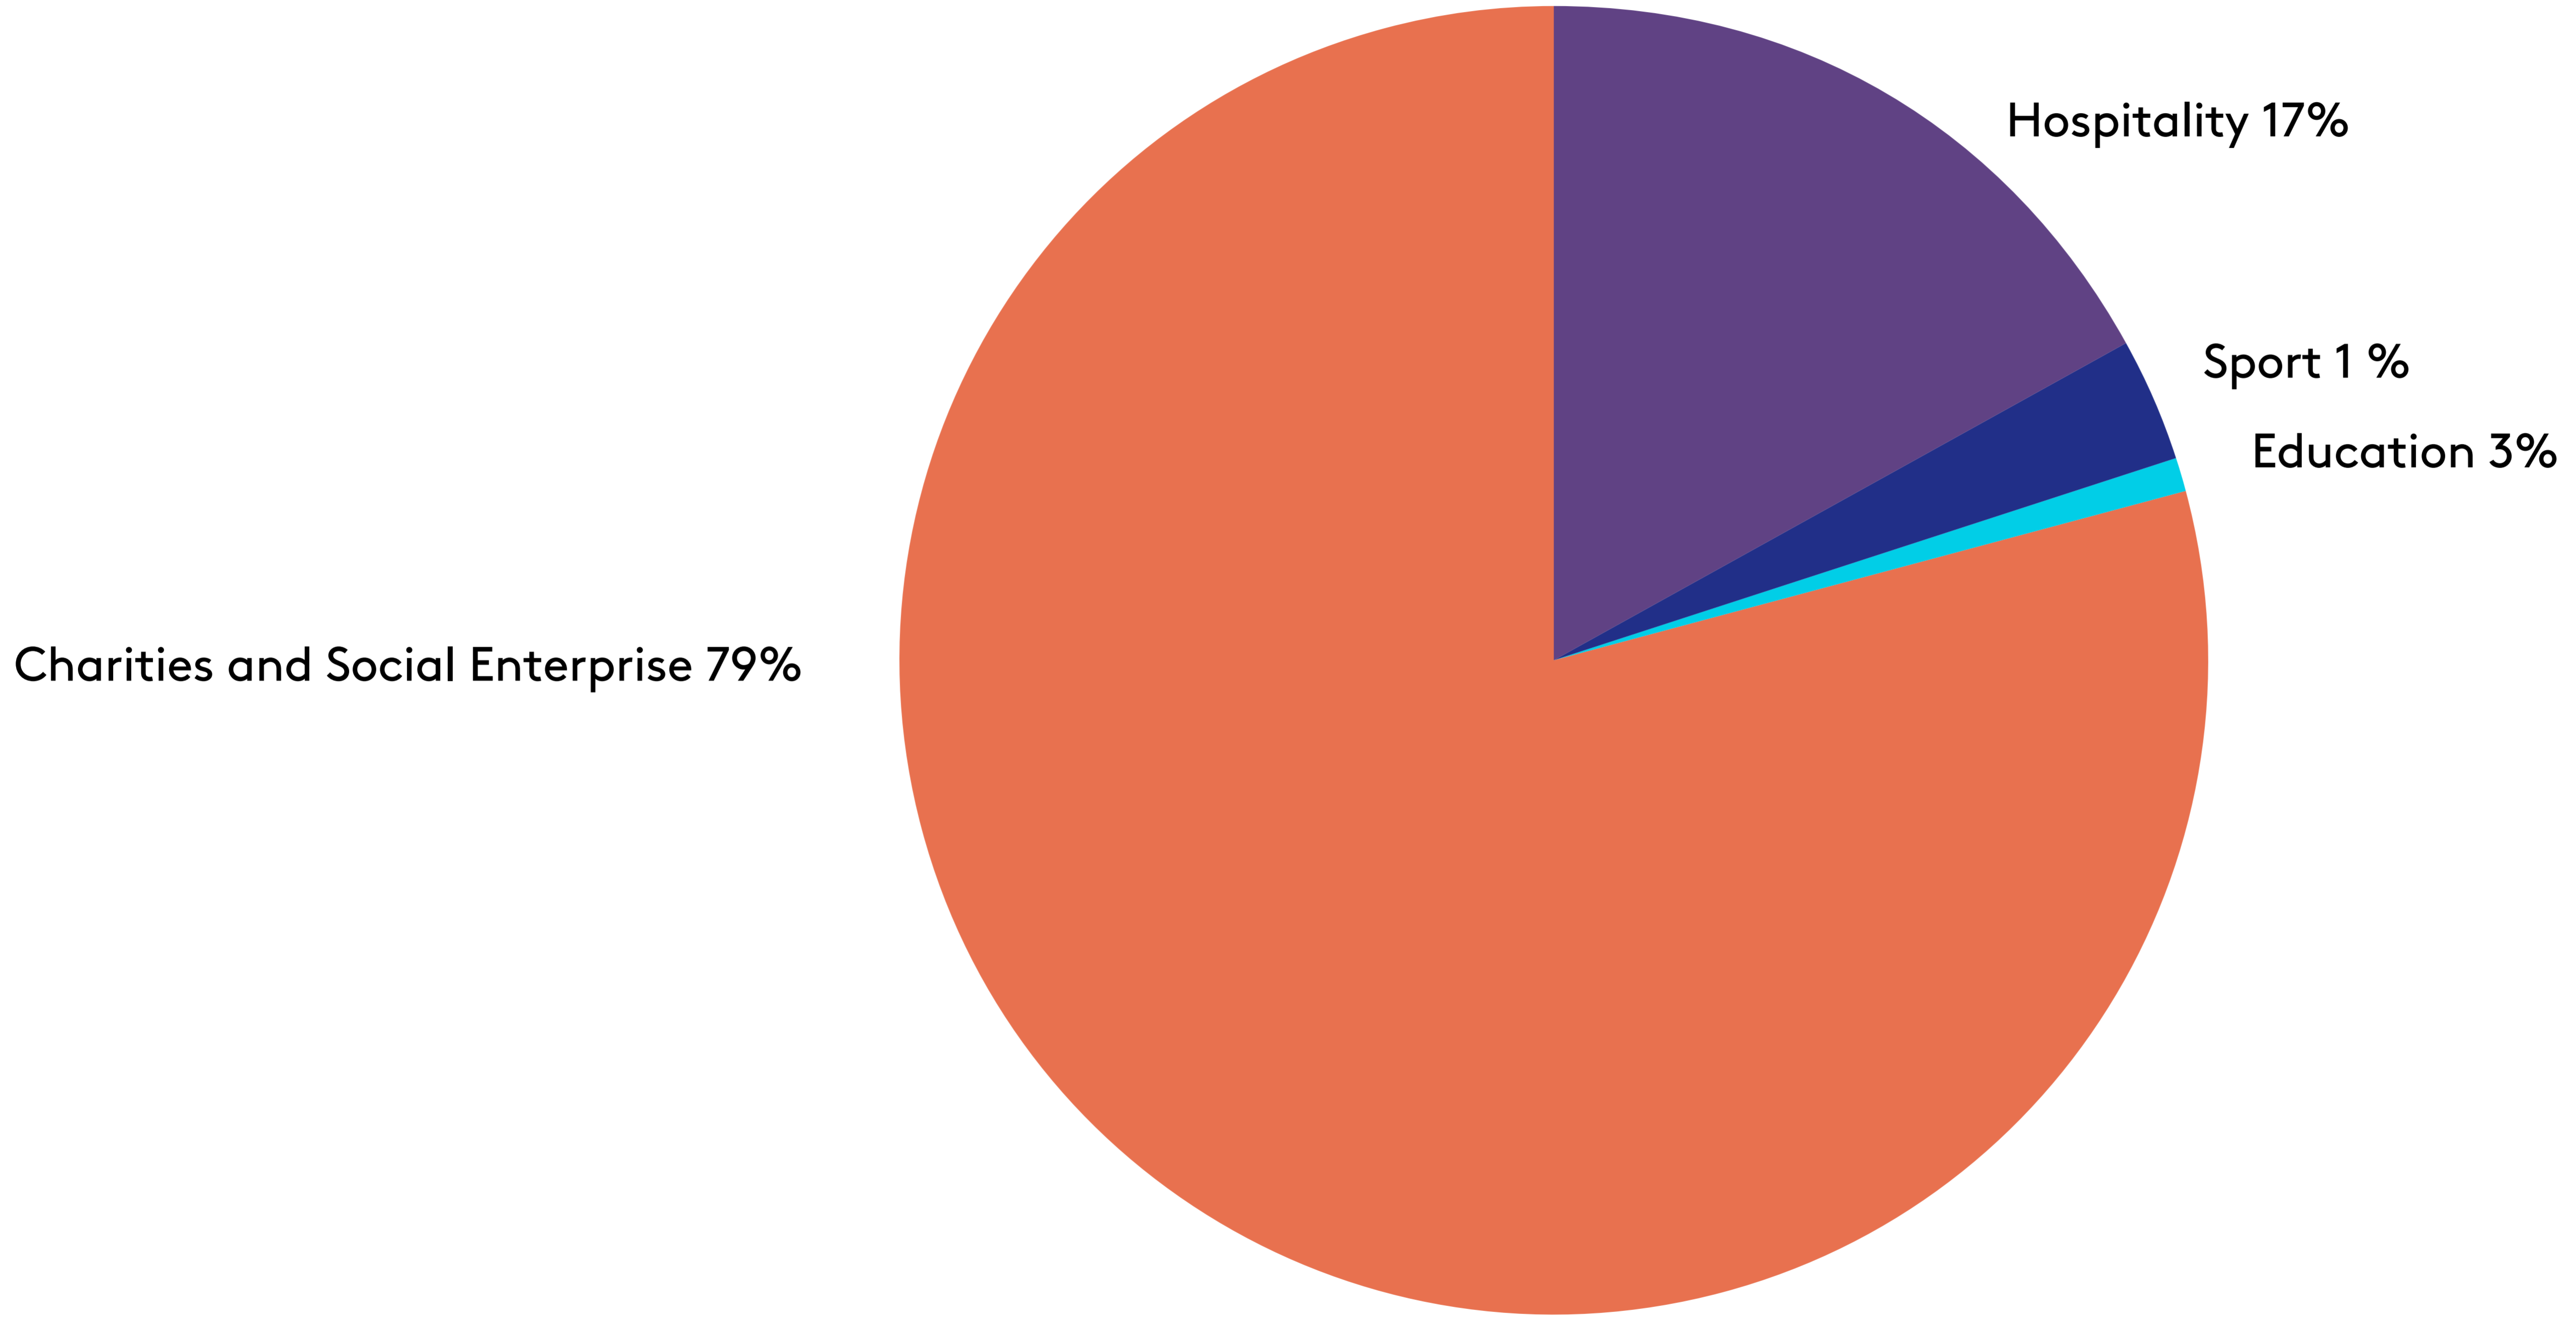

Working Progress is the animation studio that exists to help organisations achieve positive change for people and the planet.

Our studio is based on a simple idea - to use our skills to make a difference. We believe that great animation can be a powerful force for positive change.

To that end, we exist to help charities, social enterprises, not-for-profit organisations and purpose-driven brands to tell their stories in the most impactful way.

As our name suggest, we too are a work in progress but we are committed to continue using the work we do to facilitate positive social and environmental change.
